BONES, WEAPON DISCOVERED

Wrench Turned Over to Richmond
Police by Resident Of Swamp District

Bessie Ferguson was murdered. This is the only concrete fact thus far established through the sensational accumulation of evidence in Contra Costa and Alameda counties—bones, skull fragments, teeth, clothing, letters, physician's instruments and myriad minor articles and the grilling of half a dozen persons involved in the woman's life.

Such was the admission of investigators last night.

Deputy District Attorney T. H. DeLap of Contra Costa county announced that no immediate grand jury session is contemplated in this county, and none will be called in the case unless more direct evidence of the murderer's identity is found.

An apparatus believed to have been used by the slayer to chloroform his victim an "S" shaped wrench believed to have served as a weapon and two pieces of bone from yesterday's contributions to the mass of evidence.

The bones and apparatus were taken from the waters of San Leandro bay on the shore of Bay Farm Island near the spot where portions of the skull had previously been discovered. The instrument is similar to that used by physicians in administering an anesthetic.

The wrench was found by Mrs. W. B. Patterson, who resides near the Swamp on the outskirts of Richmond. She turned it over to Chief of Police Dan Cox.

The fresh evidence was turned over to E. O. Heinrich, Berkeley criminologist.

They encountered 30 days of bad weather and ran short of water but replenished their supply by catching rain in a sail. The insert shows H. Wickstram, the pilot, and J. Grossend, one of the two sailors.

253 Men Get Jobs In Month Through Builders' Bureau

That rapid strides are being taken in the development of the free employment bureau maintained by the Richmond Builders' Exchange is indicated by the monthly report issued by L. C. Dexter, secretary of the exchange.

A total of 253 men were placed on jobs during August by the exchange, the report shows. They are employed in the following lines: Carpenters 20, brick-masons 6, electricians 8, painters 10, hod-carriers 7, lathers 6, millmen 4, cabinet makers 5, paperhangers 3, skilled laborers 40, unskilled laborers 130.

The free employment bureau located in the exchange on Fourteenth street is open daily from 7:30 a.m. until 4:30 p.m.

Dexter announced last night that the exchange will be closed next Tuesday, September 8.

Pullman Diamond Gladiators Banquet

Officials, members and friends of the Pullman ball club, champion of the Oakland Industrial league, gathered around the banquet tables in Mah Jongg Inn, El Cerrito, last night to celebrate the victory of the club in its year's undertaking.

Paul Huston who has piloted the team through two successful seasons was one of the guests of honor. Iron Man Kamb, pitcher who won nine straight games was another. Speeches were made by members of the club and the officials of the Pullman shops.

It is expected that the Pullmans will enter the San Francisco Winter league, and they will probably take a trip to Chicago this fall to play for the championship of the Pullman Shops throughout the United States.

BUILDING PERMITS ISSUED

R. H. Kinney will reshingle the roof of his cottage on Seventeenth street, between Roosevelt and Clinton avenues, at a cost of $75 according to a permit obtained yesterday from Building Inspector E. E. Grov. A permit was also granted L. Smith to build a private garage to accommodate one machine on Roosevelt avenue, between Eighteenth and Nineteenth streets. The cost will amount to $75.

STOLEN BLIMP 'GRAPH HOLDS CRASH SECRET

Solution of Mystery Awaits Recovery of Instrument That Tells Ship's Course

CALDWELL, (O.), Sept. 4.—The Government's investigation into the wreck of the navy blimp Shenandoah took an early step today, which resulted in the death of fourteen members of the crew, including Lieutenant Commander Zachary Lansdowne, today developed into a search for the giant liner's recording barograph, without which naval officials will be unable to determine the cause of the catastrophe.

This was the announcement of Commander Jacob Klein of Washington, who is in charge of the investigation.

Mystery surrounding the crash will be unsolved until the instrument is found, Klein said. The barograph records time, altitude and atmospheric pressure, and if found may establish definitely whether the big ship broke in mid-air or was torn into three sections by dragging on the tree tops.

Commander Klein, after a preliminary examination this afternoon, expressed the opinion that the ship broke in the air when hit by a cross section of winds. This, however, has not been definitely established, he said.

Government and civil officials are searching for the missing barograph. It is believed that it was taken by souvenir seekers who did not realize its value to the government. Commander Klein asked newspapermen to co-operate with government officials in the search and to announce that possessor of the instrument would be given other souvenirs if the barograph was returned.

The naval board of inquiry went into session this afternoon to determine the cause of the accident, but no progress was expected to be made until the missing instrument had been found.

"The barograph records the up and down movements of the ship," Klein said. "It would tell us definitely how high the ship was when it first encountered trouble, the atmospheric pressure and the time of day. We could tell the ferocity of the storm, the speed of the wind, every movement of the ship."

Richmond Man Hurt By Auto

Painful injuries were sustained by John J. Stack yesterday afternoon when he was struck by an automobile driven by F. B. Schumann, of Garvin and McLaughlin avenues, Schumann was on his way to work at the Certain-teed products plant.

At the Cottage hospital Stack said he lived at 436 California street, and that he is a part time employee of Zeb Knott, local contractor. The cause of the accident was not explained.

Dr. St. John Hely attended Stack at the Cottage hospital where he was rushed by Schumann. No serious results are expected from the injuries.

Garrard Tracks Reconstructed

Rebuilding of the Key tracks on Garrard boulevard from Macdonald avenue to Ohio street has been started by a large crew. The work will require more than two weeks, it is reported.

Boy Eckles will undergo an operation for the removal of his tonsils today in an Oakland hospital.

OFFICIALS SKETCH ROUTE FOR BAY SHORE HIGHWAY

Richmond officials conferred at Berkeley city hall yesterday with city chiefs of Oakland, Berkeley and Emeryville as the first step toward establishing the route of the proposed Eastbay section of the Bay Shore highway from Richmond through Oakland.

City Attorney D. J. Hall, City Manager James A. McVittie, City Engineer E. A. Hoffman, Mayor W. W. Scott, and Councilmen E. J. Garrard and J. H. Plate represented Richmond.

Decision was reached to call a meeting for next Thursday in the Berkeley city hall to which all city engineers of the territory affected will be called. Some difficulty is being encountered in seeing a way to get the road through unincorporated territory of Richmond Annex and Albany, according to City Engineer Hoffman. This territory comes under the supervision of the county supervisors. It was decided to ask Supervisor Zeb Knott to attend Thursday's meeting and inform the officials of the procedure necessary to put the road through.

The new bay road project arose over the petition to the city council for the paving of Panhandle boulevard. In looking over the lay of the land, officials saw the possibility of the through road to Oakland to relieve the congestion on San Pablo avenue, and immediately took the matter up with other Eastbay cities.

Civic Clubs Will Unite in Jubilee; Rotary 'Decorates'

The biggest civic club meeting of the year will take place on next Friday when the Rotary, Kiwanis and Lions clubs of Richmond meet jointly to carry out the spirit of the Diamond Jubilee. City Manager J. A. McVittie will be in charge of all entertainment.

Dr. Thomas A. Boyer was the speaker of the meeting of the Rotary club yesterday. His topic was "Cash-ing In" and he declared that happiness is everywhere but each man must find it for himself. Dr. Boyer pleaded for all to think better of their neighbor and consequently think better of themselves. The talk was replete with humor and pathos, holding the members to the last word.

An amusing outcropping of the Jubilee spirit was the distribution of "honor caps" to members for "conspicuous service" in Richmond. The charity box was well sweetened. The chairman of the day being James Cravath.

Show and Banquet Plans Are Laid By Builders' Exchange

Making plans for their monthly social night on Friday evening, September 25, members of the Richmond Builders' Exchange met in regular session last evening in the exchange office. President E. H. Higgins presided.

A surprise entertainment and a banquet will be features of the social night, according to plans laid last night. In charge of arrangements will be the lumber dealers, mill men, glass dealers, metal store front dealers and architects of the exchange.

Roy Eakie of the Tilden Lumber company and H. J. Caplan of the W. P. Fuller Glass company head the committee in charge of the banquet. The entertainment will be put on under the supervision of L. B. Kirby of the Henry Cowell Line and Cement company.

Coasting Auto Takes Woman to Her Death

En route to the Diamond Jubilee celebration here, Mrs. Peter Ewan-son, 65, of Aberdeen, Wash., was killed south of Castella Thursday afternoon.

Alone in a machine and not understanding the operation of brakes or gears, she plunged over a precipice to her death. Swanson, who had been driving, stopped on a grade and got out to enjoy an unusually good view of Mount Shasta. The brakes failed to hold and the auto started down the road, leaving it at the first turn.

SAMPAM SEEN TOWING FLIGHT BOAT IN HEAVY SEA, IS REPORT

Radio Message Gives Tidings in Search for Missing U. S. Aviators

UNACCOUNTED FOR 75 HOURS

Nervous Tension Increases As Fourth Day of Search Is Unavailing

(By Universal Service)

SAN FRANCISCO, Sept. 4.—The following radio message was received from Honolulu at 11 o'clock tonight addressed to the Twelfth Naval District here:

"Captain Keda of a Japanese sampam told Customs Inspector Mitchell late tonight that he saw a sampam towing a disabled airplane off Kauai. Heavy seas."

The message came as the search for the PN-9 No. 1, flag plane of the California-Hawaii flight, which has not been heard from since Tuesday afternoon, had extended well into the fourth night tonight.

Submarines, airplanes and private vessels have kept up night and day search for the giant seaplane that disappeared into the gloom last Tuesday, but search has been fruitless.

The nervous tension which had taken hold of naval headquarters on the first two nights the sea plane was missing has given away to ominous silence.

Is it more than 75 hours since the air craft under the command of Commander John Rogers, low in fuel, flew over the U. S. S. Astor took in its gallant battle to reach its goal, 1950 miles from San Francisco.

Four of the guard ships, the William Jones, the McCauley, the Corry and the Myer have been ordered back to San Francisco to take on a supply of fuel. The other ships are still participating on the search for the PN-9 No. 1.

Tuesday No Holiday Governor Declares

SACRAMENTO, Sept. 4.—Governor Friend W. Richardson today issued a statement refusing to declare a public holiday on Tuesday, September 8, which falls between Labor Day, next Monday, and Admission Day, next Wednesday. The Governor said such action would seriously interfere with both public and private business.

Mr. and Mrs. J. P. Smith will leave today for Calistoga for a several day's outing.

CAUSE OF EUROPE'S UNREST

According to Sir Frederick Maurice, the noted military expert of Great Britain, in an address delivered at the Williamstown, conference, the real danger in Europe today is not militarism in France or Germany, but militarism in the continent's new nations, carved out of Europe by the Versailles treaty.

The army of the United States is in proportion to the population and wealth much smaller than that of any nation across the sea, Sir Frederick declares, and its size is purely a domestic affair with no international significance.

Germany may have violated some features of the Versailles treaty, the speaker declared, but it is no danger of upsetting the peace of the world for years to come, and the evacuation of the Ruhr is easing the situation. Nor is France as militaristic as commonly supposed. Its army, though large, is smaller than it was in 1913. Then it numbered 766,000 men, while now it is 675,000, with only 435,000 of these Frenchmen. The rest are natives recruited because of the increase of French territory in northern Africa.

Sir Frederick concluded: "The real cause for the failure to reduce the total number of Europeans under arms is due less to the attitude of France and Germany than to the creation of a whole crop of new armies in the nations which have been erected as a result of the peace treaties. Poland, Rumania, Finland, Yugoslavia and Czechoslovakia all today have formidable armies. They see themselves surrounded by neighbors from whom territory has been taken. They have in their own borders large minorities of other nations, and they are obsessed with the sense of insecurity."

The carving up of European territory and the making of these new nations was due, of course, to an effort to carry out the doctrine of self-determination of peoples. Whether this is all for the best the future alone can tell. Up to this time, however, Uncle Sam has no cause to regret his refusal to ratify the treaty of Versailles with its league of nations accompaniment.

SHAM RECREATION

"We have the vacation habit, but for fifty weeks in the year it is held in check," says Lee Russell in the September Scribner's Magazine. "We attend exhibitions of sports and games in which we take a vicarious part, our interest being kept alive by a thinly disguised commercial propaganda. Our automobile trips are passive, a mere whirl through regions we know would be beautiful if we could stop to explore them. The automobile and the moving picture theater seem to have come expressly to the call of the tired business man. In both he may sit still. In the one he is rushed by the scenery, in the other the scene is rushed by him. In both cases the speed is such as to preclude reflection or even thought. But these are not real recreations of the spirit. That is what we seek, that, and the enrichment of our internal life, our power of reflection and enjoyment. It is hard to prevent their being submerged, either by business or by these substitutes for recreation which so crowd in on us."

"In order to make the way somewhat easier, it will be well at the outset to get rid of the fallacy that life can be divided into two parts, one all work, the other all play. Life is whole and indivisible. It is lived for itself by each several one of us, and from birth to death, our feelings and activities condition all we do. Many a feather-headed flapper has thought that, somehow, after marriage, she would be a different woman. Young men still sow wild oats, in the belief that, somehow, they can avoid reaping them. It can't be done."

The fellow who kicks up the most dust doesn't always make the most progress.

The grumbler of a family should remember that the worst wheel of a cart creaks most.

It is not recorded that W. G. McAdoo shed any great amount of tears when he learned of the bricks that are being thrown at each other by Al Smith and Mayor Hylan.

Henry Ford is quoted as saying that the nation is on a solid basis, but he is not to be understood as denying that it is also on balloon tires.

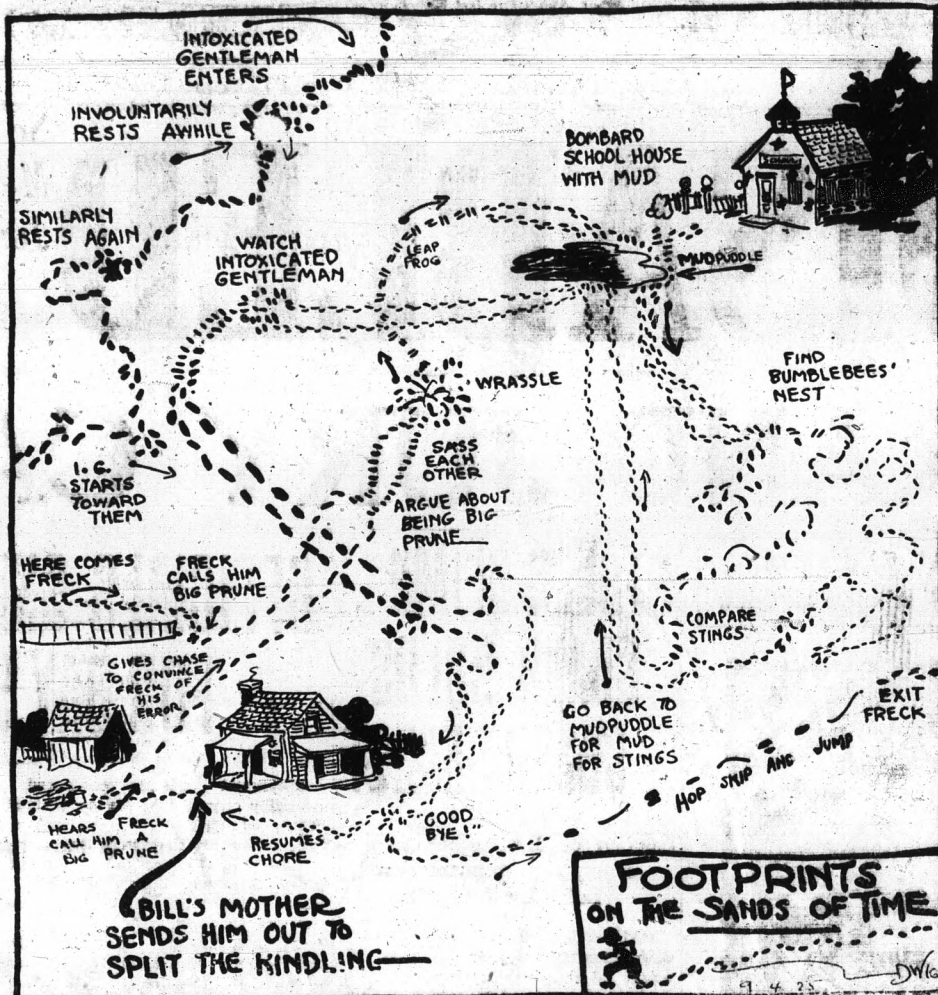

Along with its active misdoings the soviet has committed at least one crime of omission. It has failed to wipe out Russian dancing.

It is as easy to suppress a first desire as it is hard to satisfy the desires that follow.

It is a safe guide to remember that you can always afford to give what you can afford.

Are You Dressed Alike On Both Sides—or Is Your Frock Asymmetrical?

It would be interesting to make a study of feminine costumery simply from the point of view of symmetry. One thing can be said at the outset, and that is that within the past few hundred years perfect symmetry—that quality of having things exactly alike on both sides—has been more closely adhered to in masculine costume than in feminine. At present men are for the most part dressed with perfect symmetry even to the shape of their hats—save for the fact that their coats must button one side onto the other, and have that there is an inconspicuous bow at one side of the hat.

It would be rather difficult to find a woman dressed in symmetry, unless she followed very strictly the mannish mode which is already on the wane.

Within the last six months or so we have heard a good deal about asymmetrical shoes, but they are not exactly new, either, because all buttoned shoes are of necessity different on the two sides. The new fashion for asymmetry applies more to evening clothes than to others, and wherever new clothes are talked about there is reference to the fact of the perfectly plain tube-like frock is giving way to a frock showing drapery of various sorts.

A type of evening gown that has already found many admirers boasts not of front flare nor back flare, but has a bustle-like flare at one side, the other side, the back and front all being quite snug. In he new full-skirted evening frocks there would frequently be perfect symmetry were it not for the loops or bow of an enormous sash at one side. Sometimes the ends of the sash trail the floor on one side. Then there is still the fashion of placing an enormous flower on the hip or shoulder. Sometimes a 'crest-like ornament of ostrich tips is used instead and not infrequently of real rather than artificial flowers.

The matter symmetry would be interesting as applied to hair. How about yourself? Do you find a coiffure perfectly similar on both sides more or less becoming.

THE AEROPLANE

Lillenthal, a German, was among the pioneers in the heavier-than-air machine inventive field, but he gilded his invention without a motor; Langley, an American, also experimented with steam-driven machines. Orville and Wilbur Wright, Americans both, were the first to construct a successful plane, in 1903.

An extreme example of the asymmetrical frock is this model of beige silk faille trimmed with gilt buttons.

WISE AND OTHERWISE

By MARY MARSHALL

The voices of the people around us often tell a lot more than the words they utter. Your own voice may tell a good deal more than you know or than you would quite like to have it tell. Perhaps one thing we dislike about a person with a highly cultivated and artificial voice is that instinctively we feel that we are deprived of the advantage of knowing about them what the natural tone and quality of the voice would tell. It is like speaking to a person heavily veiled. But even the most carefully cultivated voice shows something of the speaker's disposition—the very fact that is artificial ought to show something. Then there is the loud voice—what does that show? Self confidence, doesn't it? And the unmodulated voice? A certain lack of imagination or else an easily discouraged disposition.

A harsh, rasping voice indicates somebody of spiteful and mean characteristics, the faultfinder, the sarcastic and critical person.

The quick, rather high voice usually indicates somebody of nervous temperament, impatient, and sometimes irritable, also the person who is rather self satisfied.

The person of loud, slow voice is usually somebody who likes to impress others, who likes to brag and boast a little.

The trembling voice usually belongs to somebody who is too timid and self effacing, sometimes to the sort of person who is always afraid of life, and who lacks initiative.

Of course the well-modulated musical voice, neither too high nor too low, too loud nor too soft, too quick nor too slow, indicates the sort of person most of us think we are the person with well-rounded, interesting personality, who has sympathy and character and individuality.

THE LIMITED MAIL

by ELMER E. VANCE

"THE LIMITED MAIL" with Monte Blue, is a picturization of this story by Warner Bros. Pictures, Inc.

SYNOPSIS

Bob Wilson, driving the Limited Mail up the mountain pass, has failed to see that the signal light has switched from green to red. A moment later he sees a runaway freight train crashing down from ahead. Ten seconds later the two trains are a mass of flaming wreckage. Bob, recovering from unconsciousness, rushes to the mail car to find his chum, Jim Fowler, the mail clerk, dead, but Bobby Fowler, Jim's child, is apparently uninjured.

Caroline, rising quietly, went to the window and made wide the way of the fresh breeze and sunlight. Caroline's nightgown was not thin; and before this moment Jane had not found a chance to observe what she had been dying to observe—Caroline's figure. Now, against the flood sun, her gown became transparent; the slender boyishness of her young form was revealed to Jane's jealous eyes, who thought of the dumptiness already creeping in behind her own knees.

A hurried pounding on the door—and Mrs. O'Leary calling in a high, frantic voice for Caroline to open. Alarmed, Caroline unlocked it hurriedly. Mrs. O'Leary's face was as white as her apron.

"The Limited's been wrecked!" Jim Fowler was among the killed, and Bob and Bobby are missing!

Caroline sank weakly upon the bed, slim fingers clutching her throat. Jane looked serious, but not particularly upset. Ever after, Caroline remembered that Jane's face had shown no sorrow—for she had glanced at her in the tragic tension of the moment, and had seen only stone.

The rest of the story that had filled

"The Limited's been wrecked!"

tered down the line to Crater City was told as fast as Mrs. O'Leary's excited, trembling lips could voice it.

"Relief trains are bringing in the hurt. There's ugly talk amongst trainmen that Bob took a chance and deliberately ran past the red signal that was set against him at Rise Ravine station. 'Twas his fault, they all say, and his arrest has been ordered. But they can't locate him!"

Presently Mrs. O'Leary was gone, weeping—and the two girls were left alone in a dead silence. Finally Jane shrugged.

"I guess one must expect those things on a railroad!" Caroline moaned at her in grief-stricken intensity. "How can you be as matter of fact about it? Don't you realize what this means—to poor Bob?"

"Means he's in a hell of a jam. I guess!" Caroline forbore in despair. She rose then, goading her quivering body into action, and started swiftly to finish dressing.

"I'm going to him—I'm going to Bob—he will need help!" Jane appraised her coolly; glanced up at the picture on the mantel, then back to Caroline and remarked, "It means—ever so much more to me. I think you'd better let me see Bob alone!"

Caroline stared at her. If it were true that Bob would rather see this woman, Caroline would not stand in the way; but the disgust over Jane's heartlessness had not left her yet, and Caroline did not think there was much real concern now behind Jane's declaration.

"You can go to him if you want to," she cried stoutly, "but I'm going, too! I love Bob and you can't keep me from him!"

Jane nodded, and drew out a cigarette. "Of course, but if I tell you what he is to me—"

Jane nodded, and drew out a cigarette. "Of course, but if I tell you what he is to me—"

Caroline, in terror, stopped in the movements of dressing. Jane smiled on, ever so sweetly, reaching over the bureau for her handbag and taking from it a significant gold circlet, which she held up to Caroline's eyes.

Caroline gasped—"Not Not! You can't mean—"

"Oh, yes! Yes! I do mean just that—Bob is my husband. You wouldn't want to come between man and wife, would you?"

For the second time in the fatal five minutes of bad news following bad news, Caroline collapsed to the bedside. Jane met her eyes boldly, brazenly, and Caroline could not find in them the hint of a lie she hoped to find.

She finished dressing now, apathetically—courageously trying to hide her hurt from the alien in her room. And, finishing, she went out—without a word. She was grimly and earnestly determined to help Bob no matter what his former relationship with Jane. Caroline knew in her heart that somehow Bob's part in this was aboveboard; it was not in her heart to believe that Bob would make love to her if he was the husband of this woman, at least without first telling her of the fact and seeking a meeting on honest terms.

But wait and search though she did through that long day, and through many long days that followed, there was no sight of Bob or word from him. The wreck was cleared away, the Transrockian flyers steamed on their wonted way, and the excitement became a part of the City's remembered past. The charge of negligence of duty hung in the air, to be clamped on Bob should he ever be found. And the trainmen talked—talked in ways that made Caroline's ears flame and her heart sick within her—of the sort of a man Bob must be that he would run away from the result of his incompetence or carelessness or both.

Jane had gone. Left without seeing Caroline again, that first day. Then something happened that fired Caroline with renewed hope after many days of despairing waiting. One of the girl clerks in the Western Union office—an alert little girl, who also boarded at Mrs. O'Leary's—fell to gossiping with Caroline one day, in the course of a combined friendly and dining visit to the luncheon.

"Say, remember that woman you had overnigh a while ago?"

"Well, she was a cuckoo! Came into the office that morning and gave me a message to guy in Chicago—called him husband. Will you believe me if I tell you she took back that message, rubbed out the name of her husband, and inserted a different name no less than four times. She must run a sharem!"

"The girl fumbled in her bag. 'Look, I sneaked out the office copy to let you read it!'"

Caroline read with a mist of eagerness over her eyes.

Caroline's heart was fluttering like a frightened robin's, as she handed the message back to the girl. "But that ain't the worst of it," the girl now explained, "for that guy sent the money order within two hours, yet a week later we got a message for her came to the office asking why she had not shown up. I don't believe she ever went there!"

Caroline did some fast and furious thinking during the next hour, and at the end of that time she slipped over to the telegraph office and with the connivance of her girl friend, sent a message of her own to Gaston, diplomatically phrasing a request for information about the relationship of one Bob Wilson to Miss Jane Gordon, as she called herself.

JACK HOLT HERO ON CALIFORNIA SCREEN

"Wild Horse Mesa," Paramount's stirring picturization of Zane Grey's spirited story of the same name, opened at the California Theatre last night, and a first night audience greeted it with cheers and hisses. The cheers were for Jack Holt, whose heroism and daredevilry finally win out against tremendous odds while the hisses went to Noah Beery who plays the role of outlaw with all the villainous polish and dash that has made him one of the screen's most popular "bad men."

This latest contender for photoplay honors has all the old Zane Grey thrills and many that are brand new. In fact, it is quite the last word in fast-action, melodramatic westerns.

The plot centers about the pursuit and capture of several thousand wild horses, and develops an abundance of surprising situations and many unexpected and startling climaxes. The mightiest scene of all is the stampede of 5,000 wild stallions—a scene, the like of which the silver sheet has never seen.

George B. Seitz, who produced the picture from Lucien Hubbard's adaptation, deserves an especial pat on the back for the manner in which he has handled the story. He has managed to maintain the suspense right up to the very last few feet of film. The picture has the advantage of magnificent outdoor backgrounds and rugged settings, having been photographed amidst the scenic grandeur of Arizona.

As for the acting, Billie Dove and Douglas Fairbanks, Jr., who share featured honors with Holt and Beery give an excellent account of themselves and the minor players are admirably effective.

Other features on the same program include "Mary, Queen of Scots," a laugh sensation, with "Our Gang," "International News," Larry Canelo at the organ.

Mrs. Johnson Back At Helm of Store After Texas Trip

Mrs. Helen Johnson returned to Richmond yesterday from a month's visit to San Antonio, Texas.

Mrs. Johnson has again taken the reins at the L. H. Schrader Co. and will have full charge of the store in the future.

During the time Mrs. Johnson has been in charge of the L. H. Schrader Co., the business has thrived remarkably.

She has received very favorable comments in several magazines of national reputation.

In an interview yesterday Mrs. Johnson gave sidelights of her trip and conditions in Texas.

"Texas has just gone through a drought, and while there was really nothing serious about this it was sufficiently alarming to cause a general depression of business in the Lone Star State."

"Optimism is quite noticeable and everyone seems to be in high spirits as a wonderful boom has been predicted."

"San Antonio is on the verge of one of the biggest land booms ever known in the entire United States," Mrs. Johnson said.

"Oil men are pouring into Texas and drilling on a large scale is about to be started."

"Then, too," Mrs. Johnson stated, "the land boom is headed by such men as S. M. Forrest, a millionaire oil operator of Kansas City, president of the company, J. D. Jarratt, banker and capitalist, of San Antonio, vice president, C. H. Kearney, nationally known engineer, second vice president, and C. M. Ladd, general manager."

Mrs. Johnson states that C. M. Ladd sold $28,000,000 worth of Texas real estate during the last three years.

"I am glad to be back in Richmond again," Mrs. Johnson says, "and I am feeling better than I did before taking the trip."

NOTICE
All feed and fuel yards in Richmond will be closed on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday, September 7, 8, and 9. 9 3 3t.

This new picture from the Neilan studios yesterday were appreciative, and gave visible evidence of their delight with it.

The cast is headed by Richard Dix, Claude Gillingwater, and Claire Windsor, aided by a score of others equally as capable. The author is Hugh McNair Kahler.

Other features on the same program include "Mary, Queen of Scots," a laugh sensation, with "Our Gang," "International News," Larry Canelo at the organ.

"Vanity cases used 3000 B.C."

SCIENTIFIC excavations in the ancient city of Kish, so we are told by a news dispatch, show that women carried vanity cases forty-nine centuries ago. Why did not the luxuries of that old civilization spread to the rest of the world? Why were the delicate and pleasure-bringing things of life buried and hidden away for so many ages?

Without the printed word, information could hardly be spread to other countries, and the knowledge of events and things could scarcely be preserved. Today, if a better rug is produced in Kurdistan, it is soon advertised for sale in American newspapers. If a better necklace is made in China, a printed advertisement will shortly describe it and quote the price on the other side of the globe.

Advertising publishes the secrets of good things from one end of America to the other. The newest and best products of forty-eight states are told about, fully and truthfully, wherever the public press is read.

Read the advertisements and you keep from being buried like Kish.

Advertisements tell you what's best to buy—where to get it and what to pay for it.

Cabin Searched, Wrench Is Clue In Tule Murder

The significance of the wrench, seen by Mrs. Patterson several days ago, did not occur to her, because of the many cast off articles in the junk piles of the district, until yesterday when examination of the skull identified as that of Mrs. Loren after it was taken from the mud of Bay Farm Island shore indicated the nurse had been struck on the head with a heavy instrument.

RECOVERS WRENCH.
That the weapon probably was an automobile wrench was the theory of Heinrich, who found the fracture running along the left side of the skull. On learning this, Mrs. Patterson late yesterday returned to the spot where she had noticed the wrench and recovered it for the investigation officers.

The wrench is about eight inches long and is shaped like the letter "S." It is quite heavy and a blow with it, however, lightly delivered, would be likely to have serious consequences. The wrench is spotted as if it had been splattered with blood, which has now dried. These spots will be analyzed to determine if they are from blood.

FIVE BONES FOUND.
Dragging of the channel between Bay Farm Island and the Alameda shore began at daylight and the first few hours brought up five pieces of bone, leading officers to the belief Mrs. Loren's body may have been cut up into small pieces, or all the flesh removed from the bones by the slayer.

The bones had evidently been sawed off. Deputy Sheriff Ralph Harrison of Contra Costa thought several of the pieces may have been from the skull.

Patrolmen Grant Hicks and L. Olsson of the Alameda police department were in a rowboat with grappling hooks, while wading about in high boots were Harrison, Deputy Sheriff J. J. Collier and Under Sheriff J. H. Hanftin and Deputy Sheriff Joe Soares of Alameda county.

A piece of cloth which looks as though it might have been a bandage also was among the finds. It and the bones are being held for examination by Heinrich.

ROWE'S CABIN SCANNED.
The discovery of the nurse's skull carried the investigation forward with momentum and took the searchers for evidence to Gordon Rowe's hunting cabin near Alviso.

The outcome of the visit was the elimination of Rowe's cabin from the investigation, Heinrich declaring the worthwhile clues do not lead in that direction.

Heinrich went to Alviso yesterday with Sheriff R. R. Veale of Contra Costa. They made a thorough examination of the exterior of the cabin. The tide was low and Heinrich was able to go under the cabin in a boat and search among the piling. As the water receded further and the boat was left on the mud floor, he took samples of this mud.

SAMPLE OF ASHES.
On the inside of the house, Heinrich studied everything with extreme care making notes of his observations. From the kitchen stove he took a sample of ashes. In another room a box couch upholstered in red leatherette stands in a corner. Heinrich found two stains on its covering which he thought would warrant further study. He scraped specimens off the leatherette surface, securing enough particles to determine the cause of the stains.

A San Francisco police captain visited the Rowe cabin last week, following the hurried trip there by the authorities with Rowe when he was questioned regarding his friendship with the missing nurse. The San Francisco police officer examined Rowe's private duck pond thoroughly, going over every inch of its extent in high rubber boots.

PROBE CO-ORDINATED.
An agreement to work together in trying to solve the mystery was reached last night at a conference in the office of Dr. O. D. Hamlin, was attended by Sheriff R. R. Veale, Undersheriff W. R. Veale of Contra Costa and Deputy Sheriffs Joe Soares, Jack Collins and Jerry Hanftin of Alameda county.

While Sheriff Frank Barnett of Alameda county was not present at this conference, he was reported to have conferred with his deputies on the discovery of the skull, which District Attorney Earl Warren said had made action by all Alameda county agencies of justice warranted. The result of the Barnett conference was not given out.

BARNET GIVES ALIBI.
Assistant District Attorney T. H. De Lap of Contra Costa announced here that Sheriff Barnett had visited him Wednesday and given a general statement accounting for his whereabouts on the evening of August 19, the date of Mrs. Loren's disappearance.

"Authorities will have to investigate to find out if he has proved an alibi," De Lap declared, refusing to reveal details of the sheriff's question.

One of Barnett's deputies, Mary Hergers, who gives her address as Octavia and Thirty-fifth avenue, has been active in the search for further evidence at the El Cerrito tule marsh and yesterday reported finding an infant's white dress.

Mrs. Patterson, who found the wrench believed to have been the weapon of the murderer, also found a piece of a check with the name of Robert T. Ferguson printed with a typewriter. She found another piece of trouser leg, the mate to one found by J. Hartman, 1102 Jackson street. She also found some burned embers which are believed to be the remains of part of Mrs. Loren's attire.

PATIENT IN HOSPITAL.
Another chapter of Mrs. Loren's past was uncovered with the discovery she had been a patient at the St. Francis hospital, San Francisco, in July, 1921. Giving the name of Mrs. J. Loren, as she sometimes spelled it, the nurse entered the hospital on July 12, 1921, and was under the care of Dr. John Tufts until July 20, 1921, when she left.

According to Dr. Tufts, he did not examine the woman, but she said she was suffering from a certain disorder and he advised her to stay in the hospital. The nature of the disorder led Dr. Tufts to assert that he did not think it probable the woman could have been an expectant mother. His failure to examine his patient was explained by the fear that the woman might have been suffering from the consequences of an illegal operation.

Rather than be implicated in any way, Dr. Tufts suggested she stay in the hospital without examination. At the end of eight days she left the hospital apparently recovered.

Heinrich, whose deductions in unravelling the crime thus far rival the work of a fiction sleuth hero, said that he expects shortly to be able to make a report which may demand action by a grand jury. He refused to give any details, saying that he is still on the trail of important new discoveries.

RARE TREE, SOURCE OF LEPROSY CURE, BROUGHT FROM BURMA JUNGLES

Above is shown the rare tarak-togenos kurzii tree, source of the chaulmoogra oil, the only remedy that has been regarded as effecting a cure of the dreaded leprosy. Seeds for this tree were sent to the United States by Joseph F. Rock, U. S. Department of Agriculture, who scoured the jungles of Siam, Burma, Assam and Bengal at the cost of the lives of three of his followers and nearly his own. His expedition made a trip in the heart of almost inaccessible jungles infested with poisonous reptiles, tigers and other dangerous beasts. The photograph shows the tree and Wilbur A. Patton, superintendent of the U. S. Government Plant Introduction Garden at Miami, Fla., where the climate has proved favorable to the culture of this tree, so valuable to the leper colonies.

Ten Santa Fe Years

How the Santa Fe has grown in ten years and what that growth means to Santa Fe patrons. Better service at reasonable rates, due to efficiency of operation and millions spent for improvements.

That Santa Fe freight moves promptly, that Santa Fe journeys are enjoyable—doesn't just happen.

Wise economies, 284 million dollars spent between 1914 and 1924 on track and equipment, and the co-operation of patrons and employees—these have helped to build up a great transportation machine which is at your instant service for a most reasonable charge. And this in the face of heavy increase in costs of operation without corresponding increase in rates.

In these ten years the Santa Fe and the Southwest have grown together. The Santa Fe's growth has been not only in mileage and facilities, but also in ability to serve patrons better.

This decade has been a period of expansion. In it the Santa Fe's operated mileage has increased 922 miles. Each locomotive now hauls 54 per cent more. Nearly 14,000 more Santa Fe freight cars are available. There has been an increase of 15 per cent in passengers carried one mile and 79 per cent in revenue tons carried one mile.

Other important items have grown, too. Such as expense of maintenance of the railroad, which increased 121 per cent, or $1,700 a mile. Maintenance of locomotives showed an upward trend of 137 per cent, or $6,141 each. Passenger cars 85 per cent, or $999 a car. Freight cars 155 per cent, or $161 per car. All operating expenses combined jumped 114 per cent. Taxes advanced for each mile of track 196 per cent, or $993. Total taxes in 1924 were $17,730,961 or $1,499 per mile.

Yet Santa Fe freight rates have gone up only 28 per cent and passenger fares only 47 per cent.

Freight loading carried by each car has increased 3.12 tons, or 14 per cent. Freight loading carried by each freight train has increased 226 tons, or 54 per cent. These are gratifying marks of progress.

The Santa Fe hopes to keep on growing and to keep on giving satisfactory service.

RICHMOND HIGH TAKES OPENER

UNIVERSITY FALLS BEFORE LINE PLUNGING GLADIATORS

FOUR TOUCHDOWNS FOR LOCALS COME FROM TWO CLEAN DRIVES AND TWO LUCKY BREAKS. OAKLANDERS FAIL TO PENETRATE POWERFUL DEFENSE OF HILL'S MEN

Richmond Union High school opened its grid season with a crash and a bang yesterday at the High school field here when the eleven wearing the blue and red jerseys plowed their way through any defense the University High of Oakland could put up and scored four touchdowns, but no goal points. Final score 24 to 0.

Two of the tallies were made by clean drives and passes, but the other two came as results of flukes. Just a moment after the second quarter opened the University High center threw wild over the backs, head. Richmond recovered back of University's goal-line for the first touchdown.

Never at any stage of the game did Richmond falter or let its goal line be crowded. Although far lighter than the Oakland outfit, the local men hit the line with piles of power and seldom failed to gain.

The victory for Richmond came as quite a surprise to most of the fans. Quite contrary to expectations, the Richmond eleven forsook the pass during most of the game and showed their heavier opponents how line plunges should be pulled. That a football game is more important than a fire was shown during this game. The entire south side of Nichol field became a mass of flames from a grass fire.

A strong south wind carried a dense smoke across the football field, threatening to force the players and officials to forsake activities for a time.

But hardly a fan left the bleachers or took his eyes off the sweating gladiators. Even when the engine of the fire department came tearing down Twenty-third street to extinguish the blaze only a few small boys were at the scene of the conflagration.

By their victory yesterday Richmond, Union High school showed it had the makings of a team that will equal any of the championship winners of the old days. Even though they won yesterday they demonstrated themselves to be only rough players.

The only trouble was that the University High was rougher. But the men are all willing to work and are all capable of learning the finer points of the game.

17-YEAR-OLD GIRL CHOSEN AS MISS MILWAUKEE FOR ATLANTIC CITY CONTEST

Miss Virginia Armstrong was picked from a field of twenty girls to represent Milwaukee in the beauty contest to be held at Atlantic City. Cities in all parts of the country will be represented and the winner will become Miss America 1925.

Politics Will Pass Out With Sale of Clubs

The old political combine in the Pacific Coast League will likely be counted out this winter if Lew Moreing and Charley Lockard decide to sell their holdings at Sacramento and Seattle. Both are hollering "uncle," now that the "lean year" in baseball is generally acknowledged. The rest of the club owners see in the move to sell both these clubs the prospect of things getting back to normalcy again. The switch in the ownership of these clubs, if they are sold, is certain to pave the way for continuous baseball here and is likely to help solve the territorial rights problem in the south. In fact, those "in the know" believe if Lew Moreing sells out the Sacramento franchise will be shifted to San Francisco and continuous baseball under one plan or another restored. That, of course, is all problematical.

If Lew Moreing sells the Sacramento club it will not be because of finances. Lew is well supplied that way. With him baseball has been a hobby rather than a business, and, like all hobbies, he probably is tiring of it.

In Seattle it is a different story. Baseball up that way has been a profitable enterprise, and if the club is really for sale as reported there shouldn't be much of a search needed to locate a buyer.

But, in the meantime, the placing of these two clubs on the market is significant. It will mean a thorough cleaning of house, politically and otherwise. And if for no other reason than to clean up the political situation the league should profit, in that it will restore harmony. And harmony is the spice of life.

PITTSBURG IS BIG FAVORITE OVER SENATORS

NEW YORK, Sept. 4.—With Pittsburgh and Washington far ahead in their respective leagues, the Pirates are speculative favorites to win the world series, being rated a 7 to 5 shot in some quarters.

Superior pitching and aggressiveness are the counts upon which the McKeechies players are receiving the edge. Their nine straight victories are regarded as an indication that they will finish so far in front of the National League that they will be in ideal mental and physical condition for the series.

The Cardinals yesterday hit Krummer freely but not opportunely. Twelve safeties netted them only two runs, while the Pirates were gathering five tallies off Sherdel with 12 bingles.

Cooper of the Cubs bested Luque of the Reds in an opening 11 inning duel, 3 to 2. Rixey then turned the tables, blanking Chicago, 4 to 0.

Rabbit Maranville resigned as the Cubs' manager, and, succeeded by George Gibson, viewed the games from the bench.

Rain and wet grounds postponed the New York-Philadelphia and Boston-Brooklyn games in the National, while all the Eastern teams of the American circuit had a holiday.

Detroit submerged Cleveland under 17 hits, 11-9 and Ted Blankenship of the White Sox limited the Browns to five hits in a 3-1 triumph.

Grid Season To Open Today At Berkeley Bowl

The first game of the interclass football series will be played tomorrow when the sophomores and seniors tangle. Due to the fact that the freshmen are not allowed to start practice until the fifteenth of this month, a change in the usual method of running the series has become necessary. Usually two games are played on the same day with the sophomores playing the seniors and the juniors playing the freshmen, but this time there will be only one game the first day. The juniors drew a bye and will play the winner of the first contest a week from tomorrow. Then the winner of this contest will play the freshmen for the championship sometime after the fifteenth, probably. It is not yet certain whether the frosh will play for the interclass championship, however, as they have a game scheduled about nine days after practice starts.

Clint Evans says that his men will be slightly handicapped in the first few games because the teams his men are to play have already started practice. This will give them a good two weeks start, which is quite a bit so early in the season. However, the frosh Bear coach is well pleased with the appearance of the men, but as he says, you can't be sure of what they can do until you see them in action. They have been keeping more or less in good physical condition by exercising in the gymnasium, but they'll get no real work for a week and a half yet.

JUDGES ARE CHOSEN FOR YACHT RACE

The judges to handle the series of three races for the Diamond Jubilee yacht championship were selected yesterday. They will be Louis A. Weidenmuller, George Wayland and Fred Adams. All three are veteran yachtsmen.

Weidenmuller has sailed on the bay for many years and has won some classic events. He knows every angle of the game. Wayland is well known both here and in Seattle as a naval architect and it was he who charted out the new course which will be sailed over for the first time on Sunday. Adams is president of the Pacific Interclub Yacht Association and has assisted at every race of importance for years.

The first of the series will be sailed on Sunday and the other two on Monday and Wednesday afternoons. Races start at 2 o'clock from the foot of Fillmore street.

Berkeley Rotary Club Plays Here

The date for the baseball game that will decide the supremacy of Richmond or Berkeley Rotary clubs has been set for Friday afternoon September 11, at First street, hall mark. The College City tossers hurled the deft at the heads of the local Rotarians, and Harley Carter, skipper of the Richmondites, promptly offered battle.

Harley is already recruiting the luminaries of the club for the team and expects to win hands down.

The Berkeley club will bring its cohorts to Richmond in time for lunch with the local club. The game will start about 1:30 p. m.

GIBSON GOES TO CUBS WITH GOOD RECORD

CHICAGO, Sept. 4.—George G. Gibson, new leader of the Chicago Nationals, brings to the almost prostrate Cubs a record as one of the most brilliant catchers of the National League, as well as experience of three years as leader of the Pittsburgh Nationals.

The successor of Rabbit Maranville, who resigned, holds the National League record for several feats in back stopping.

He caught 150 games in one season as a member of the pirates; he caught 140 consecutive games, another mark; he caught over 100 games in each of six years, and he caught 1195 games all told in the senior circuit, a record which stood until Irv Wingo of Cincinnati broke it recently.

Tailors To Play Concord Outfit

The Richmond Schneider Tailors, under the management of Elmer Hansen, will clash with Concord on Sunday, September 20 in the second game for the championship of Contra Costa county. The game will be played at Concord. The clubs are so evenly matched no inkling of the outcome can yet be gleaned.

The Tailors usually win their games by wide margins, by virtue of their slugging ability. Last Sunday they showed Pittsburg up to the tune of 31 to 6.

The Concord aggregation also has a fast club. They defeated the El Cerrito Merchants 5 to 3 last Sunday. Dick Austin, local tosser, plays behind the log for this club.

Harry Wills Says Jack Is Spoofing

New York, Sept. 4.—Harry Wills, negro heavyweight contender, declared following his arrival here from Europe today on the Aquitania that he never expected to meet Dempsey in a championship bout.

"I believe Dempsey is kidding," Wills said, "since he won't fight me I plan to take on some of the other heavyweights."

Wills said he did not blame Dempsey for wanting to hang on to his title.

MERGED PLANT'S WORKING FORCE STAFF TO STAY

In the official announcement of the merger of the Pacific Sanitary Manufacturing company, and the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing company of Pittsburgh, Pa., it is indicated that no change will be made in the personnel or management of the plants at Richmond and San Pablo.

The employees of the Pacific Sanitary company here received notice of the merger in letters and telegrams. Assurance was given that the now employed would retain their positions and that for insurance and pension, their work with the Pacific Sanitary works would count as service with the Standard company.

Following are the announcements: (To the employees of the Pacific Sanitary Manufacturing company.) We have received official communications confirming the merger of this company with Standard, copies of which are attached.

I personally am expressing the sentiments shown in this letter and telegram, and expect the same loyalty as we have enjoyed with the Pacific Sanitary, from all our employees.

Yours very truly,

(Signed) F. A. POTTER.

To this was attached the following letter and telegram:

Mr. W. A. POTTER, Care of Pacific Porcelain Ware Co., Richmond, California.

Dear Mr. Potter:—Be advised that merger has been consummated between the Pacific Sanitary Manufacturing company and the Standard Sanitary Manufacturing company.

The Pacific Coast factories will continue to operate in the future as they have in the past under the same personnel, as the organization remains practically intact. Personally and as a representative of the company, I want to thank you and I want you in turn to thank all employees for their past efforts.

I know that all our men will give the same good efforts and co-operation under the new arrangements as they have in the past. You might also explain to all our own men that the time of service put in with the Pacific Sanitary will go to their credit in the matter of group insurance, as well as pension plan, which the Standard Sanitary has in force. These plans will be announced in the near future.

Yours very truly,

(Signed) N. W. STERN.

TELEGRAM Pittsburgh, Pennsylvania, Sept. 1, 1925.

W. A. Potter: Standard welcomes you and your organization as a member of the Standard family not as step-children, but as blood relatives. Let's go. (Signed) H. M. REED.

Grapefruit and Mint Salad

THERE is nothing quite so cool as a nice grapefruit salad on a hot summer day, and fortunately, because summer time is not grapefruit time, science has done us a good turn in preparing grapefruit in cans, with all the fiber removed and all the delicious flavor retained, ready to serve on crisp lettuce. Here is an excellent recipe:

- 1 can grapefruit
- 1 tablespoonful fresh chopped mint
- 4 tablespoonsful French dressing or mayonnaise
- A few sprigs of mint

Have the grapefruit thoroughly chilled and use part of the juice instead of lemon to make the French dressing. Add the chopped mint, arrange on lettuce leaves, and serve with crackers and cheese.

Everything was put in complete readiness last night and the boys are ready to go. Every effort has been expended by the committees in charge of details and everything points to a brilliant and pretentious occasion.
